Scotia Beneficiary Stories: Dreane

Dreane joined I Am A Girl Barbados' (IAAGB) Adopt-A Girl Programme at 15 years old, where they spotted the potential in her that she didn't yet know she had. She admits that she was a bit intimidated upon joining, but as Dreane connected with her peers, mentors and other mentees, she grew to really enjoy the programme. As a peer leader, this gave Dreane the boost of confidence that she needed to tackle any of life's obstacles that came her way.

“ It has taught me how to be more confident and how to face everyday challenges head on. I love the programme and I was able to set a better example for my two younger sisters who are now in the programme as well. – Dreane, IAAGB mentee ”

Scotiabank (Barbados) Limited has been an IAAGB partner from its inception in 2014 and recently increased its investment in the Adopt-A-Girl programme. We are proud to support young girls with educational and social opportunities, to ensure they succeed in their academic and career journeys.
